This Sunday: Day for Life. We are asked to pray for the fostering, protection and defence of all human life at all stages, from conception until natural death intervenes. Bishop Robson writes: "So many of our fellow human beings experience oppression and imprisonment, not necessarily in a prison cell itself but rather in the circumstances of their lives in which they find themselves. In this way they are "sold into slavery" and entrapment which is none of their making. Often such people are vulnerable migrants" A second collection will be taken up to further the cause of organisations such as the Santa Marta group formed by Pope Francis to help such vulnerable people.

Data Protection. Parish census forms with permission to store information and protect that information will now need to be drawn up to replace visitation books of the past. Regarding sick lists in the bulletin, the Scottish Catholic Observer states that the Information Commissioner's Office is aware of the problem but are not immediately able to comment.

Fete. At the time of writing the fete has still to take place, but it is only right to acknowledge the great work that has gone in to preparing for the event. Thank you all.

Finances. Thanks to all who contributed to the parish upkeep in our first collection which came to £1180 (including Gift Aid contributions). The second collection for the new windows came to £668. The brown envelopes for renovation: £80. Standing orders have to be added to these amounts.
We are grateful also for a donation of £200 for the end of the football season; £400 from the Women's' Guild; £700 from Mr Joseph's Curry Night and the regular monthly donation from the AA of £40.

Fr Joe writes. Would I be willing to host a service for the blessing of animals and pets? The question came up at one of the meetings of the G52 Churches Together.

The question set me thinking about the care and devotion of my late uncle, John McGeady, married to my mother's sister, aunt Mary. They lived in Donegal with their family, our four cousins. As youngsters we holidayed with them and the animals were very much part of our lives: the hens, the two or three cattle, the dog, the cats and kittens, the ducks, birds like the wagtail that visited, the neighbour's horses and donkeys, and other animals too. At night, after the rosary was said (always in Gaelic) and we had gone to bed, John after he had finished his own prayers would go round the house with the holy water to bless us all, and then out to the byre to bless the cattle. They looked at him with their big eyes for they know he was a kindly and gentle man.

So it would not be unacceptable to have such a blessing of animals. Maybe around the feast of St Roch and his dog, or around the feast of St Francis would be an appropriate time.
