Fr Joe writes. A&E at 2 am was sheltering young and old, some wrapped in blankets, on wheelchairs and bedraggled with saddened eyes or staring into empty space. I felt everyone watching me as I made my way to reception to gain access to the patient I had been called to attend and administer "the last rites".

The resuscitation room was wide and spacious with the patient on a bed in the middle of the room, apparatus around his head, wires connected to his person. His wife and his son were there with heavy hearts, comforting him with their presence if he was aware that they were present.

The Anointing was given, the prayers for the dying, the saints called upon to pray for him, the blessing of peace and the Church's farewell. The family were grateful.

His son accompanied me to the waiting room, the same people waiting, and the thought that I too am waiting and that the further I am from the date of my birth, the nearer I am to the date of my rebirth.

The evening would include activities, and to accomplish this, we require some help gathering supplies. If you are able to donate any 'crafty stuff' (felt tips, papers, card, string, sellotape, scissors, etc.), these items can be left in the box available at the back of the church
