Our painters return. We welcomed back Stephen and Chris to continue the decoration of the link corridor and the sacristy corridor. Gone are the slits in the knees of Stephen's denims, possibly due to age or else the civilising influence of Chris, his mate!

Fr Joe writes. As I strode in to the Cathedral on Tuesday evening to be available for Confessions I was amazed at the number of people who had gathered to venerate the relics of St Theresa and the atmosphere of prayer which made her presence so palpable. People were queuing up to get close to the relics, others were sitting or standing in silence. Fr Walsh, during the Mass spoke well about the saint and how Canon Taylor of Carfin was the main person who promoted her cause for canonisation.

As I sat in the confessional ,a little toddler kept coming up to the door and rattling the outside handle, but I didn't get annoyed for I knew that Theresa would not get annoyed, just as she didn't get annoyed when one of the other Sisters would rattle her rosary beads and she, Theresa, was trying to pray!
